Section 9: Community Selections

The Registry will determine what size(s) of unit you qualify for based on the number of people in your household. Complete this section to choose where you would prefer to live, and if eligible, you will be placed on the waiting list of the communities you have selected.

Additional information about housing providers and their communities can be found at https://registry.softr.app.

If you have any special requirements or limitations, please identify them in section 7 and provide supporting documentation.

Some housing providers will have specific internal policies such as tenant insurance requirements and pet policies. These will be explained by the housing provider at the time of offer.

Offers are usually made by email and/or telephone during standard business hours.

You will only receive one offer of RGI housing.

If you refuse the offer, for reasons that are not identified as special requirements or limitations above and/or the reasons are not considered valid by The Registry, you will be removed from the RGI waiting list. You will have to re-apply, with a new application date, to receive another offer.

If you accept an offer of housing, you will no longer be on the RGI waiting list. If you want to move to another RGI housing provider in the future, you will have to re-apply.

Types of RGI Housing

1. Non-Profit Housing	These properties are owned by service clubs, faith groups, ethnic organizations, community agencies or municipal governments.
2. Rent Supplement Program	The Rent Supplement Program provides rent subsidy to tenants living in housing owned by private sector landlords. The same rules apply to households in the Rent Supplement Program as other RGI housing providers.
3. Housing Co-operatives	Housing Co-operatives, or co-ops, differ from other forms of non-profit housing providers as residents are members who manage the property themselves. Members of a co-op are expected to participate in the operation of their co-operative. This may be accomplished by serving on the Board of Directors, a committee, or contributing to the tasks involved in the maintenance of the property.
